GARDEN PARTY JULY 14

The annual United Church Garden Party, which on account of unsuitable weather on Wednesday last had to be postponed, will be held at the Greenhill Park, opposite the Brunet residence, on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 14th, from 3 to 6 o'clock, weather permitting.

DEBT REDUCTION DEFINITELY OUT

Definite decision has been made by the Social Credit caucus to drop the Debt Reduction Act which reduced the principal on private debts created before July 1, 1932, by 50%, it was learned on Thursday last.

This also means that the debt moratorium which is now in effect, will not be continued. It lapsed on July 1.

CROWS' NEST MOTORISTS PROTEST

COLEMAN, Alta., June 29.—Owners of cars in the Crows' Nest Pass, of which it is estimated there are 1,000, make justified protest over lack of provision for surfacing the Trans-Canada highway between Bellevue and Coleman, from which area it is estimated $40,000 annually is paid in licenses and gallonage taxes and, in addition, gallonage taxes from through traffic. Heavy local and inter-provincial traffic warrants this stretch being hard-surfaced and every year numerous accidents are caused through the dust nuisance, the latest being on Saturday night, when several narrowly escaped death. An organized protest will be made, in view of the latest government announcement of highway improvements, which includes nothing for this densely-populated industrial area.

CASTLE RIVER STAMPEDE

So much has been said in favor of Jack Eddy's roast beef dinner at the Castle River Stampede and Rodeo, that we have decided to condition ourselves through fasting until the 14th, when we hope to enjoy such a meal as will leave little chance of a profit for Jack. Anyhow, here, there and everywhere we hear talk of people planning to attend the big annual get-together at the South Fork bridge on July the 14th, and there isn't the slightest reason to feel that anyone who attends will in any way be disappointed.

See the big posters for particulars. These posters have been liberally circulated in all points between Cranbrook, Calgary and Lethbridge, and are the product of the Enterprise Job Printing department.

Set your holiday date to July 14th, and see that you are with the thousands at the Castle River Club Stampede.

K.P. GRAND CHANCELOR AT MICHEL JULY 9

The special meeting of the Rocky Mountain Lodge No. 43, Knights of Pythias, scheduled to be held at Michel lodge room on the night of the 8th July, has been postponed to the night of the 9th, owing to the fact that the supreme chancellor could not be present on the 8th. Local district members of the K. of P. are hereby reminded, and are urged to be present, if possible, on the night of July 9th in the Michel hall.

TO ORGANIZE FISHING CLUB

A meeting will be held in the local B.E.S.L. club room on this Friday evening, July 2nd, at 7.30, for the purpose of organizing a fish and game association. All interested, whether club members or not, are invited to be present.

Mrs. E. Holgate (formerly Miss C. Gibaux) left Friday last to join her husband at Carson City, Nevada, taking with her her adopted daughter Patricia.

The Miners' Association of Coleman held their annual meeting and election of officers on Thursday of last week, when the following officers were elected: J. Atkinson, senior, president; Max Stigler, secretary; H. Chamberlain, J. Hadley, W. Hayson and W. Lees, pit committee for the International mine; Max Stigler, W. Chapman, J. Atkinson, sr., and Jack Griffiths, for the McGillivray Creek Coal Co. mine. Hospital board: International, James Glendenning and R. Brown; McGillivray, H. McMullen, G. Ford and Jack Griffiths.

CALGARY EXHIBITION AND STAMPEDE

Preparations are practically complete for the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede to be held July 24th to 10th. The show is to be opened on Monday afternoon by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and His Excellency, the Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir will be the guests of the Exhibition on the last two days. His Excellency will present the prizes to the children at Friday morning's Live Stock Review and the prizes to the Stampede champions, Saturday night.

Several special features have been arranged for this year's show. There will be two magnificent fireworks programmes instead of one as in the past; one will be presented Monday night and one on Saturday night.

Three thousand dollars has been added to the live stock prizes and twelve hundred dollars to the Stampede prizes. There are thirteen hundred live stock entries, comprising 497 horse, 528 cattle, 174 sheep and 92 swine entries. These come from North Dakota, British Columbia, six stations in Ontario, Manitoba, two stations in Saskatchewan and the balance from Alberta. This is an increase of fifty over last year's entries. Entries in the other departments are well in excess of those of 1936.

The Stampede parade will start promptly at 10 o'clock on Monday morning with twenty-three bands comprising 676 musicians, (the largest number of musicians ever to appear in one programme in Alberta) interspersed between the different sections. The parade will be led by the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, followed by an eighty-one piece massed band. The Logan City High School band of sixty-five boys, who have won several championships, are coming all the way to Calgary to take part in the parade. The Blackfeet tribal band, of Browning, Montana, will lead the Indian section.

A most interesting novelty will appear in the parade for the first time, the mechanical Jumbo Elephant, just as natural as life, with a howdah on its back for the princess and controlled by a mahout. Its inside conceals a radio which brings messages to the audience as it proceeds.

Special railway and bus fares will be in force of single fare for the return trip from Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia mainland points. Tickets and rooms may be reserved at the booths in front of the C.P.R. station in Calgary.

LORTIE - TAYLOR

Quantities of beautiful peonies and columbine formed an attractive background in the United church at Coal-dale on Saturday afternoon last, for the wedding of Winona Margaret, eldest daughter of Rev. Roy Taylor, M. L.A., and Mrs. Taylor, to Theodore Lortie, second son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lortie, of Edmonton, who were joined in marriage with the bride's father officiating. Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Lortie left on a trip and will take up residence after July 1st at 11808 129th Avenue, Edmonton.

CERVO-CAVELLE NUPTIALS

St. Joseph's Catholic church at Cowley was the scene of a quiet wedding ceremony on Saturday evening last, when Miss Florence Cavell became the bride of Mr. Mario Cervo, both of Blaimore, Rev. Father L. Sullivan officiating.

Attending the young couple were Mrs. A. Cervo, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mr. Marcel Cervo, brother of the groom. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cervo in Blaimore.

The newly married couple have taken up residence in Blaimore.

MAJOR SCHOFF TO TOUR GERMANY

Major G. H. Schoff, who for some years has been lecturing in the United States and other points of the world, and incidentally blowing a horn for Canada and its tourist opportunities, has received an invitation from the Hitler government of Germany to make a lecture tour through that country, following which he will return to the United States and Canada to tell the people of the American continent the truth about Germany.

His trip to the Hitlerites will be financed by Germany.

CRITICIZE TAX ON USED CARS

Protests against the pyramiding of the provincial two per cent sales tax on used cars were voiced when this matter was discussed at the meeting of the A.M.A. directors in Calgary. Finally, it was decided not to take any action for the present.

C. Benny, Jr., Medicine Hat, explained the working of this tax, showing that it was applied on each sale of the used car, instead of being confined to the new car sale only. The result of the system was that the tax was pyramided, which worked unfairly on the purchaser each time.

T. J. COSTIGAN OPENS LAW PRACTICE HERE

We are more than glad to welcome into community membership Mr. Thomas J. Costigan, B.A., LL.B., of Stettler, who has succeeded to the law practice of the late Joseph E. Gillis, B.A., in Blaimore.

Mr. Costigan arrived in Blaimore the early part of the week, and has already expressed himself as highly pleased with his new location and the surroundings. For the present, Mr. Costigan is residing at the home of Mrs. Gillis, and is occupying the office on the main street.

Mr. Costigan is a son of Mr. F. T. Costigan, K.C., of Stettler, and was born in that town. As a student of Alberta University, he made excellent progress, and was prominent in debates and other activities. For a while he was member of the house committee and associated with the University of Alberta Year Book. He also held an executive position with The Gateway, University official organ. During the years 1935 and 1936 he was president of the University of Alberta debating society, and a member of a two-man team that debated with the eastern Canada team of one man each from the University of Toronto and McGill.

Since his arrival here, Mr. Costigan has met with quite a number of former university students.

DRUMHELLER CITIZEN PRAISED BY MINISTER OF MINES

(Drumheller Mail)
Chas. Adams was in receipt of a commendatory letter on Wednesday, from the Hon. N. E. Tanner, provincial minister of lands and mines, for the former's interest taken in an effort to further an extension of the Alberta coal market in Ontario.

Last year Mr. Adams had intended touring Ontario with a Miners' football team, but the project fell through, owing to a number of circumstances. Four thousand circulars, dealing with the propensities of Alberta coal had been sent by Adams to Ontario as a forerunner to the proposed tour. These were scattered all over the province, with the result that Adams had a number of requests from people in Ontario asking for samples of the coal to be sent to them. The local football enthusiast has drawn the matter to the attention of the mines minister and the following letter was received Wednesday in reply:

Department of Lands and Mines of Alberta
Office of the Minister,
Edmonton, June 22, 1937.

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of the 7th instant, regarding coal markets in Eastern Canada, together with clippings which I have read and am returning in accordance with your request.

From the information which you have sent me I am sure that you were successful in doing some real good work for the coal industry in Alberta. This Department is trying to co-operate in very way with the miners and different associations to have our subventions extended and increased, and also to educate the Canadian people to use Canadian coal; in fact a big drive is being put on at the present time to further the sale of Alberta coal in the East.

Thanking you for your interest, I remain,

Yours truly,
N. E. TANNER, Minister.

WHY NOT AT HOME?

One wonders why Major Douglas should go as far afield as Alberta to try out his doctrines when he has a rich home-land in which $25 a month to everyone would be most acceptable. Why do those Britblers among whom Major Douglas lives not listen to the gentleman who would be so generous?

A Great Menace

The automobile speed artist is a great menace on the highways but he is not the greatest source of danger to the lives and limbs of other users of the open roads.

The man who drives at night with one light ablaze and the other extinguished perhaps epitomizes the maximum peril on the highway, not only to himself and other occupants of the car he is piloting but to other drivers and the occupants of the automobiles. Certainly as a potential destroyer he ranks only second to the driver with liquor-laden breath.

The one-light driver is dangerous to the drivers and occupants of other cars whom he meets travelling in the opposite direction, because the "safety" driver is unable to tell whether the single light is on the high or the off side of the approaching car. If it happens to be the off side light that is burning the driver meeting him may be fooled and make insufficient allowance for clearance. The result is a terrific crash, serious injuries and perhaps death.

The natural instinct of the "safety" driver meeting a one-light car is to give the other fellow as wide a berth as possible, because of the uncertainty as to which side of the approaching car is lighted. But here, too, there is a risk that he may plunge into the ditch in his efforts to ensure adequate clearance.

Under any conditions the one-light driver is a danger to others as well as to himself, but particularly is this the case when cars travelling in the same direction are passing one another with a single-lamp car approaching in the opposite direction.

Distances at night time are deceptive, even to the most experienced drivers. When both lights are burning it is not too easy to gauge the distance and speed of an approaching car. To many drivers the oncoming car from the opposite direction may appear a considerable distance away whereas it is actually close at hand and vice versa.

The only guide that one has to distance and the speed of an automobile approaching at night time is the apparent distance between the two lamps and the rapidity with which this distance diverges as the car approaches.

At a considerable distance away the two lights of the approaching car appear to be practically merged into one. Observing this, the "safety" driver perceives that he has plenty of time to pass a car in front of him proceeding in the same direction and pull back on to the right side of the road before the car travelling in the opposite direction passes.

But, if instead of the approaching car being an automobile with two lights showing at a considerable distance away, it is a car with only one lamp alight close by and approaching at speed, the drivers and occupants of three cars are in deadly peril and through no fault of any person except the operator of the one-light car.

It is probably doubtful whether the operator of a one-light car has any conception of the risks he runs and of the peril that he is to other travellers on the highway, or he would surely not embark on such a mad enterprise without first seeing to it that both lamps are in good working order.

If he does appreciate the risks that his defective lighting system entails and knows of their condition, then he can only be regarded as guilty of gross and culpable recklessness and should be dealt with in the light of such an indictment.

There are occasions, no doubt, when one of a pair of headlights will become extinguished through a globe burning out short circuit or some other defect which has developed after the night journey has commenced. Under those circumstances the operator cannot be held as culpable as the driver who fares forth on a trip, knowing in advance that he can show only one light and who does not remedy the defect before darkness sets in. Even the former, however, if he is as alert as he should be, should be able to perceive by the appearance of the beam on the road ahead of him that one of his lamps is not giving service.

The mad with the glaring headlights on his car is a dangerous driver but the driver only showing one light is a still greater menace and the man who knowingly drives on the highway with only one lamp burning should be brought to book on every possible occasion and dealt with without compunction.

Such cases should be reported to the authorities by all travellers on the highway who have occasion to come in contact with them or to observe them and the law should be allowed to take its course without let or hindrance.

Until the driving public fully appreciate the seriousness of the offence and report every infraction which comes to their attention, the one-light driver will continue gall on his way with death at his elbow ready to claim him and those whom he meets.

Generous Donation

Large Sum Given To Empire As A Tribute To Stanley Baldwin

An anonymous donor has given $250,000 ($1,225,000) to the empire as a tribute to the way Stanley Baldwin handled the abdication crisis. It was disclosed in the lobbies of the House of Commons.

The donor said he wanted to make a "thanks offering" for the former prime minister's "courageous, far-seeing and sympathetic handling of a supremely difficult situation, without incurring inevitable dangers for the empire."

The money was placed at the disposal of the premier for the purpose of "endowing any object best calculated to strengthen still further" the ties that bind the empire.

Preserving Ancient Art

Work Of Indians Being Perpetrated In Saskatchewan Clay

Cameron Worcester, B.A., LL.B., of Saskatoon, is perpetrating in native clay ancient arts of the North American Indians and their contact with trail blazers of the old west.

The potter who is 29, and son of Prof. W. G. Worcester, head of the department of Ceramics, University of Saskatchewan, turned from law to study early art of the Redmen.

Young Worcester learned that Saskatchewan clays, which have not been used to any great extent, offer an ideal medium for the potter's art, and many finds are yet to be explored.

He has modelled heads of Sioux chiefs and Cree in headress and warpaint, but most of his work is given to nature studies. He has found Indians preferred to draw animals and birds.

Scenery Can Be Enjoyed

View In Australia Is Not Blocked By Billboards

When Australians go motoring they can take in whatever scenery is handy without having their view blocked by billboards. In the state of Victoria alone, not a billboard is to be seen on 10,000 miles of highway. W. T. B. McCormack, chairman of the state's country roads board, said: "He has just completed a month's study of western Canadian and United States road systems."

Air Hero Penalties

Capt. Errol Boyd, first Canadian to fly the Atlantic, has fallen on evil days. The man who was commissioned as a general in the army at Haiti and has spent 7,200 hours in the air, has received an eviction order in his home town, Toronto. His furniture has been seized and he faces the prospect of soon being homeless, penitents with his wife and four daughters.

Sir Eric Geddes

The Chairman of Imperial Airways Dies In England

Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of Imperial Airways and of the Dunlop Rubber Company, died at his home in Sussex recently, at the age of 61. He was first lord of the admiralty during the closing years of the Great War and a brother of Sir Auckland Geddes, former ambassador to the United States.

Geddes, as chairman of Imperial Airways, had been engaged with plans for inaugurating trans-Atlantic service until his recent illness. His death came less than two weeks before the scheduled start of the experimental flights by his company and Pan-American Airways.

A businessman, discovered by Lloyd George for war service, he passed with rapidity through a succession of high positions and was one of the driving forces behind the country's war efforts.

His first war post was deputy director-general of the munitions supply. In 1916 he was appointed director of general transportation for the British forces in France and was shortly recalled to England as director-general of military railways and inspector-general of transportation in all theatres of the war.

Entering parliament in 1917 as Conservative member for Cambridge University, Sir Eric became first lord of the admiralty, remaining at that post until 1918. He was later minister of transport.

Chickens Are Exempted

Motorists In United States Not Held For Striking Them

The privilege of a chicken to delay to the last minute its decision as to whether it will cross a road ahead of an automobile is considerably abridged in the State of New York by a bill amending the vehicle and traffic law which Governor Herbert H. Lehman has just signed. It exempts the law under which a motorist can be held for striking or killing a chicken or any domestic animal.

The amended law requires a motorist whose car has struck a horse, dog or any one of several animals classified as cattle, to report to the owner of the animal or to the police or a judicial officer, exhibiting his license and giving his name and address. In such cases an arrest may be made without a warrant. Chickens, however, are exempted—Charlottesville Guardian.

Death Dealing Chemicals

Have Retarded Genuine Research For Past Twenty Years

The research scientist with his eyes fixed on the dollar sign rather than on alleviation of suffering can find the quickest and easiest road to wealth by seeking employment from governments as an inventor of deadly gases and other death-dealing agencies, declared Professor Antoine Lacassagne, assistant director of the Radium Institute of Paris, at Ottawa. Professor Lacassagne, who collaborated with Madame Curie, discoverer of radium, was in Ottawa to address the joint conference of the Canadian Medical Association and the Ontario Medical Association.

The Great War may have increased man's knowledge of death-dealing chemicals and apparatus, Professor Lacassagne declared, but it retarded genuine medical research by almost a decade.

Enlarge Panama Canal

Plans Drafted For Work That Will Require Ten Years To Complete

Panama canal officials disclosed preliminary plans are being drafted to enlarge the "big ditch" at an estimated cost of $150,000,000.

A bigger canal, they said, will be necessary to take care of an expected increase in traffic.

It was emphasized that work on the plans would probably take 10 years. Another 10 years would be devoted to construction, and the proposed new locks would not be in operation before 1950. Installation of the new locks would cost approximately $150,000,000.

Rules Over Island

South African Pays Small Sum Yearly To Cover Lease

"Who would like to be king of a pleasant island set in sub-tropical seas... Lord of all he surveys down to the sands which are lapped by waves breaking in from the Pacific Ocean?" asks a writer in the Johannesburg Star. "And with the price of his throne only six pounds a year."

There is a South African who has achieved this. His name he wishes to keep, but anyone reading this who guesses it from his initials, A. T. A., is entitled to do so. For A. T. A. has gone out of the world as we know it and has bought one of his own.

It is a delightful world. Situated in the midst of coral-channelled seas, among other islands which are gems of sulphur set above white sands and fringed with blue waters, where the sun is a powerful filter and the moon a soft, tropical veil; in fact, where every prospect pleases exceedingly and even man is not so vile—the world of the Great Barrier Reef of Australia.

He has made an amazing purchase. Merely by paying the Australian Government 16 a year, he has been given the lease of an island in Barrier Reef waters. For a little more than 26-a-week he has made himself a king. A. T. A.'s first "Royal" act has shown his appreciation of his bargain. Previously his island was marked on charts as Carlisle Island. Now, by a decree royal extra-ordinary, it is known as Paradise Island.

Canadian Medical Association

Other officers elected to serve with Dr. Leggett include following members of the executive council: Dr. G. F. Strong, Vancouver; Dr. D. S. Macnab, Calgary; Dr. J. E. Bloomer, Moose Jaw.

An Important Discovery

Glass Drinking Horns Used By Saxons 1,400 Years Ago

Glass drinking horns which were filled with mead to slake the Saxon thirst about 1,400 years ago have been unearthed in a sandpit between Rainham and Upminster, Essex, England.

G. T. Carter, a Romford archaeologist, who found the decorated curved horns, also unearthed relics of the stone, bronze and iron ages. Some of them are on exhibition at the British museum, where an official described them as "sensational."

"The horns are the finest ever found in this country," Mr. Carter said.

"The discoveries are so important because they show that this tract of marsh and forest in South Essex has been in almost continuous human occupation. "Hitherto there has been no evidence of Saxon life on the north bank of the Thames, and it was believed that the Britons held the north side of the estuary."

Every Year Sees Increase In Parties Visiting Russia

More than 100 conducted tours from this continent will visit the Soviet Union this summer, according to Vladimir E. Pavlov, president of the U.S.S.R. travel representatives for the U.S.S.R. A majority of the parties will make studies and observations of special phases of Soviet life, while others will go for general travel interest. Mr. Pavlov says the number of organized parties to the U.S.S.R. is increasing yearly.

Annual Payment Due

Sixty Thousand Canadian Indians Will Get Treaty Money

Officials of the Indian Affairs branch of the department of mines and resources, travelling by air, canoe and on foot, will leave shortly for the isolated districts of Northern Canada for the annual distribution of treaty money to the Indians.

Aboriginal settlers who have been ceding their rights to the Dominion as frontiers push northward during the past 60 years, receive an annual gift of $4 per head, and collection of this money is the big event of the year among the Indians.

Treaty Indians are found in parts of Ontario, and in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territories but there are none in Quebec, the Maritime Provinces or British Columbia. They are those who themselves signed away their aboriginal rights to territory or direct descendants of treaty signers. Children of Indians marrying whites are not eligible.

There are about 112,000 Indians in Canada, and approximately 60,000 receive the $4 per head treaty money annually. The Indian population is slowly increasing.

Cannot Supply Demand

Telephones Scarce In Japan So People Buy Them

There is a telephone shortage in Japan, the only country in the world where subscribers have to "buy" their telephones instead of renting them.

Every year the ministry of communications offers a certain number of telephones for sale. This year 55,000 were offered to the public and 787,549 applications were received.

The post office accepts ordinary applications for a telephone, but there is such a long waiting list that it may not be installed for years. So telephones are bought and sold through brokers at a high premium.

What can be more satisfying, asks a writer, than putting in a hard day's work in the garden? Not putting in a hard day's work in the garden.

Some people find as much pleasure in winning about their misfortunes as other do in boasting of their good luck.

In Japan the silkworm furnishes whole or partial livelihood for at least 15,000,000 people.

IMPORTANCE OF USE OF PURE SEED IS RECOGNIZED

Saskatoon.—Growing stress upon development of pure seed of corn, vegetables, grasses and all sorts of forage and root crops were evident in reports of provincial representatives to the 34th annual meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, in session at the University of Saskatchewan.

Significant in this connection was the announcement that the Robertson associate honor had been awarded to two farmers engaged in the production of created wheat grass and potato seed. The men were James Rugg, of Elbow, Sask., and S. E. Griffin, of Acton, Ont.

Much of the registered and certified seed being produced in Canada has been sent to the United States, where it has met a good reception, reports indicated.

Evidence that the Junior Grain Club movement across Canada was growing was also contained in the report, and a noticeable feature of the convention was the large number of comparatively young men registered, and in high positions.

R. S. Sparrow, of Kilmoryn, Ont., a young man, presented the report of the Ottawa Valley Seed Growers' Association, and A. M. Stewart, of Alton, Ont., presented the report of the Ontario Seed Growers' Association statement. Both laid particular stress upon the youth movement evident in their territory.

The Ontario men also emphasized developments in Ontario with respect to seed cleaning methods. Throughout the province, they said, were plants constructed entirely for that purpose, and to which farmers could take their registered seed for cleaning. It had been found that this development had greatly aided purity of Ontario seed, they said.

Due mainly to the Ontario reports, the suggestion that the convention set up a committee to study seed cleaning methods, and to bring in suggestions, was made by F. L. Dickinson, of Winnipeg, vice-president of the C.S.G.A. The suggestion will be considered.

Seed standards also came in for discussion when Professor Robert Sumner, of Macdonald college, of St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., brought in his report as chairman of that committee. It was claimed by several of the standards were too high in many cases, and for that reason, impracticable.

In Nova Scotia, it was claimed, climatic conditions had prevented the growing of first quality seed, and one grower there believed the standard should be made more elastic. The whole question was referred back to the committee for a report.

More than 300 delegates from all sections of Canada were registered here as sessions got under way. President F. W. Townley Smith, Lashburn, was chairman.

Dr. Walter C. Murray, retiring president of the university, welcomed the visitors.

Importance to the agricultural industry of the distribution of pure seed varieties was stressed in Mr. Smith's report. Pure seed of cereal, forage and root crops, which had been promoted and fostered by the organization, had been recognized highly valuable, not only by farmers, but by governments and business men, he said.

Pure seed, from which could be reaped good crops, was also of importance to the livestock man, and the president predicted a great demand for registered forage crop seed in the near future.

Standards set both by the association and by the Grain Act had often been criticized as too severe, the president remarked. He appealed to registered seed growers to make application for registration only after they had assured themselves there was a good chance inspectors would agree to the issuance of certificates on their seed crops.

Health Rules For Trailers

Uniform Regulations Throughout Canada To Apply

Ottawa.—Uniform regulations throughout Canada relating to automobile trailers have been adopted by the health departments of all provinces. It was indicated by officials of the national health department here.

In general the regulations already effective in Manitoba have been approved by the other provinces.

For the most part the regulations deal with sanitation.

These set forth that closets of automobile trailers must be of the removable receptacle type, fly-proof, provided with satisfactory means for ventilation and of such construction as will permit of proper cleaning and disinfecting. Containers must be regularly treated with disinfectant or deodorant.

Sinks must have removable, watertight metal containers for retention of all liquid waste.

Discharge of liquid or solid waste on to the ground is prohibited. All waste must be emptied into sewage pipes or disposed of by other approved means.

Tourist camps where trailers park must bury or burn solid and liquid waste for trailers. Conveniences of these travelling houses must not be used when the trailers are parked in camps.

It is prohibited to live permanently in a trailer within the limits of any city, town or municipality, except within provisions of local bylaws and regulations. All automobile trailers and their occupants are subject to provisions of regulations respecting disease control, under the Public Health Act.

Treat Wheat For Smut
Ontario Farmers Are Using The Hot Water Treatment
Chatham, Ont.—The first experiment in producing smut-free wheat seed on a commercial basis in Ontario is being attempted on four Kent county farms. The experiment is expected to prove also that hot water treatment will not damage the vitality of grain or kill germination.

The apparatus for the hot water treatment of seed was installed last fall. Four farmers subjected their grain for the treatment. In bushel lots it was kept in hot water at varying degrees for different periods. The treated seed was sown and the wheat is now five feet high. Cutting should start in about three weeks.

The experiment has been conducted in collaboration with Ontario agricultural department and officials of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Mine Officials Criticized
Coroner's Jury Finds Laxity In Judgment Caused Disaster
Nanaimo, B.C.—A coroner's jury ended two days of investigation into the June 11 flooding of the Beban mine at nearby Extended, B.C., and returned a verdict criticizing mine officials and mine inspectors for laxity in practical judgment. Three miners were drowned and two others were rescued when water broke through into the mine from the adjoining and now abandoned Extension workings.

After noting Joe and Nelson Shepherd were rescued from drowning, the verdict said:

"We find that no precaution had been taken in boring ahead in No. 4 level on the face of the slope. It was also found that one hole had been drilled on the left rib of No. 3 level close to the face."

Work On Ontario Farms

Opportunity For Unemployed To Help Harvest Bumper Crop

Toronto.—Sounding a warning Ontario's prospective bumper crop might be needed in the event of a European war, Premier Hepburn launched a campaign to put unemployed men to work on Ontario farms.

"We have the most bountiful crop in our history," the premier said, "it is absolutely imperative that we take full advantage of it and handle it properly because with an acute food shortage in the west and the possibility of a European war becoming more and more acute, the North American continent in the near future may be the only continent that can be turned to for food supplies."

All employable married men now registered and receiving relief will be able, under the plan, to accept farm work without having to account for the money they earn so long as they retain it for the use of themselves and their families. While men will be struck from the relief rolls while engaged on farm work, their families will still be maintained on relief. No man's absence from his municipality will affect his legal residence.

The government will pay transportation of men from their present home to the farm jobs. The jobs, as last year, will be open to single men as well and every effort will be made to encourage the single man to go on the farm.

To date, the premier said, 4,055 farm placements have been made by the government. Indicating the demand, however, the premier said in the Toronto office alone there are 100 unfilled placements.

RAPID ADVANCE OF INSURGENTS IN BILBAO AREA

Portugalete, Spain.—The insurgent tide has rolled westward from Bilbao toward Santander, last important city held by the Basques.

Artillery thundered in the hills. Five columns of infantrymen moved out of the Bilbao region on roads leading toward Santander.

Insurgents captured Portugalete, industrial town and last foothold of Basques along the Nervion estuary linking inland Bilbao to the sea.

So powerful was the new insurgent advance that officers expected to conquer Valmaseda, first main objective, within two days. Valmaseda is west and south of Bilbao, about a third of the distance to Santander.

Portugalete was a rich prize. The town is jammed with factories, smelters and coal and iron ore deposits. Its wharves were lined with tugs, freighters and barges.

Government troops held out until the very last. They dynamited a bridge linking Portugalete with Las Arenas across the estuary. A number of buildings were burned and much of the population was evacuated.

Bread finally became plentiful in Bilbao. The city rapidly was approaching normality with radios blaring, street cars running and business houses opening their doors.

To Investigate Planes

Air Worthiness Of One Type To Receive Attention

Ottawa.—Pending an investigation, certificates of air-worthiness for all planes of the same type as the one that crashed at St. Marys, Ont. June 21, with the loss of three lives, have been suspended, it was announced by Transport Minister C. D. Howe.

There are 11 planes of the type in Canada, eight in commercial work. The suspension will ground all planes with commercial licenses and the department will serve notice on private owners it accepts no responsibility for their safety.

In making the announcement, the minister said: "A number of accidents involving this type of aeroplane have occurred in different parts of the world, including two in Canada. In recent years and, in the interests of public safety, a thorough investigation into the cause of the accident is being conducted. As soon as the findings of the technical officers in the department of transport are presented, a decision regarding the general airworthiness of these aircraft will be given."

The crash at St. Marys, Ont., took three lives, Arthur Leaven, Alfred Ogden and Charles Sockett, all from Toronto.

Bubonic Plague Spreading

New Type Attacking Animals In Western United States

Denver.—Rapid spread of bubonic plague, disguised in a new form among animals in the western United States, with a prediction it may go to the Ohio river and Canada and be very dangerous to man, was reported to the American Association for the advancement of Science here.

The warning was given by C. R. Eskey, senior surgeon, United States public health service, San Francisco. The new form is called sylvatic plague.

Tuberculosis Control

Campaign To Combat This Disease Among Indians

Ottawa.—A campaign to combat tuberculosis among Indians was mapped out here by a committee representing the federal Indian affairs branch and the Canadian Tuberculosis Association. It will be recommended to the government for action.

The rate of tuberculosis among Indians is 10 times as great as among white men in Canada and the committee recommended stringent control methods.

The government will be advised to examine all children in Indian residential and day schools. Pupils found to have active tuberculosis would be removed to sanatoria for treatment.

Other recommendations were: Establishment of special schools where pupils found to have early and minimal tuberculosis might receive special care and attention with a view to their return to normal school routine within two years.

Physical education to be made a major subject on the curriculum of all Indian schools.

Eradication of tuberculosis in cattle supplying milk to Indian schools. Chairman of the committee was Dr. L. Stone of the Indian branch and the others included were Dr. A. B. McQuarrie, Vancouver; Dr. A. B. Simms, Fort Saskatchewan, Sask.; Dr. T. F. Murray, Sarcee, Alta.

Would Fly To Moscow

James Mattern Plans Flight From California To Russia

Oakland, Calif.—Plans for a non-stop refueling flight from Oakland to Moscow were announced by James Mattern, noted aviator, who said he would follow the route taken by the three Soviet airmen who flew from the Russian capital to Vancouver, W.-B.-C., last week.

Mattern said M. B. Benedum, Pittsburgh, Pa., oil man, had backed him in acquisition of a $90,000 plane which he would take from Burbank, Calif., to Oakland in the initial test flight.

In 1933 Mattern flew from New York to Norway on a projected world tour but he crashed up later in Siberia where he was rescued by Soviet airmen.

TRIBUTE PAID TO GOOD WORK OF MEDICAL SCIENCE

Ottawa.—"The true life-saver," Lord Tweedsmuir told the Canadian and Ontario Medical Associations, "are the doctors and not the patients."

The governor-general paid a brief visit to the capital to be guest of honor at a luncheon of the two medical bodies.

"Supposing we had tomorrow universal peace assured for all time," he said, "there would be no real security for human life." His Excellency declared that "to-day every sane man must be a devotee of peace, for most of us, except the very young, have had personal knowledge of the terrible consequences of war."

"Heaven forbid that I should minimize the horrors; the best guarantee of peace is that the world should remember them. But great though the toll of war is, if you will look back through history you will find that the toll of disease is far greater."

The governor-general told his audience "in history we find that the loss of life by plague has always been infinitely greater than the loss on the battlefield. The plague in Athens devastated her far more than the Peloponnesian war. In the Crusades it was not the deaths on the field that depopulated Europe, but the leprosy which was brought back from the east."

Despite medicine's triumphs, he declared, new problems have arisen. He intimated yellow fever, confined at the moment to West Africa. "If, through modern communications, it should reach East Africa and spread thence to India and the Far East, we might have a repetition on a far greater scale of the plagues of the middle ages," he declared.

There remained too the fight against one or two major diseases, he added, mentioning cancer and rheumatic diseases.

The governor-general recalled Canada has produced outstanding figures in medical science but paid tribute not only to those "we might call the grantees of the profession" but also to those ordinary doctors "who throughout Canada are performing faithfully the most arduous duties in the face of great difficulties and for very little reward."

NAVAL FORCES IN SPANISH WATERS CAUSE OF WORRY

London.—Britain watched anxiously as Germany increased her naval forces in Spanish waters in the face of a warning British would "regard most seriously" any act of reprisal against the Valencia government.

There was an uneasy fear the joint Italo-German withdrawal from the non-intervention patrol to isolate the Spanish war prosaged a retaliatory attack against Spain as punishment for the alleged effort to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

The manoeuvring of German warships around the Spanish peninsula puzzled London officials, who found it hard to reconcile it with Germany's professed eagerness to prevent further incidents.

In answer to a question by Clement Eden, leader of the opposition, Eden said:

"I would suggest to the house that reports of German warship movements eastward in the Mediterranean should be received with great reserve. Official information of the Italian admiralty does not confirm them."

To a question from Philip Noel Baker, Labor, as to whether he could give any information regarding the alleged debarcation of Italian troops at Malaga and other points, Eden said:

"The non-intervention committee did not receive any confirmation of the news and British warships patrolling the region did not advise that such an event had taken place."

There were reports from Gibraltar that 10,000 more Italians had landed at Malaga. Reports came from persons who had recently left Malaga but officers in Rome denied Italians had landed anywhere in Spain.

Germany has ordered her fleet in the Mediterranean reinforced by the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. Reports from Rome indicated the commanders of the Italian and German fleets were acting in closest cooperation.

Three German destroyers of the naval division commanded by the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, left Lagos, in the extreme south of Portugal, presumably for the Mediterranean, after being refueled by a German tanker.

Admiral Scherl was expected to follow them with the cruisers Nuremberg and Karlsruhe and a transport, the other units of the division.

Reports from Gibraltar placed the German warship concentration in the vicinity of the straits at 15 vessels. Some are near Tangier, international zone, while others are already in the Mediterranean.

The arrival of the Admiral Graf Spee will bring the total German strength to at least 19 vessels—two pocket battleships, four cruisers, nine destroyers and four submarines. A flotilla of destroyers, led by a fast cruiser, was reported to have been lying at anchor off the insurgent port of Algiers. Boats were reported plying constantly between the vessels and the beach.

Members Get Increase

London.—The House of Commons approved a measure increasing salaries of members from the present £400 (almost $2,000) annually to £600. The vote was 223 to 17 after an amendment that the increase be not effective until after the next general election was rejected 326 to 31.

NEED FOR EXPLANATIONS

Premier Aberhart was unable to indicate social credit in Alberta. His followers in the legislature, to the number of a couple of dozen at least, recognized that and started an insubordinate movement. The insurrection led to resigning of communications with Major Douglas, founder of the movement, and the importation of a couple of experts to examine the Alberta situation and make recommendations. These experts are George F. Powell and L. D. Byrne.

Having witnessed the complete and complete failure of the Aberhart government to institute social credit, we will now have an opportunity to see what the Douglas lieutenants will do. They have already made certain recommendations, but Alberta people are waiting anxiously to look over "the plan." They say the movement is a thoroughly democratic one, that confiscation of property is not considered, that increases in taxation is contrary to the idea and that lowering of the cost of living is paramount.

We would ask them if the size and potential value of the current Alberta grain crop has anything to do with the Social Credit plan. Last year the premier told us that because the crop was small social credit could not be instituted. Do Messrs. Powell and Byrne agree? If so the distribution of dividends depends upon the crop and the crop depends upon the labor of the farmers and the weather. If so the Aberhart government's regulations for "codes," "minimum prices," etc., which increased farm costs, were contrary to the principles of social credit.

If the farmers are going to bear the brunt of social credit dividends, it is time they were informed plainly of the fact. They cannot bear any more burdens. They have had more to carry since 1930 than any other class. They can look for nothing from social credit except more straws on top of the camel's back.—Hanna Herald.

BEHIND THE VEIL

IN THE U.S.S.R.

What terrible thing is happening in Russia under the sombre rule of Joseph Stalin? Thousands of people, former trusted officials and army officers of high ranking, are being imprisoned and hundreds are being shot. Only occasionally is the veil lifted sufficiently to give an inkling of what is going on in that unhappy land.

Autocracies and bureaucracies are subjected to such exhibitions of inhuman devilishness. Every so often there must be "blood letting" on the part of the man at the head. It seems these autocrats get what is known as the "jitters" and the only cure is an orgy of killing.

The constant enemy of Stalin is Trotsky, now an exile in Mexico. So wherever Stalin encounters trouble he promptly blames it on the former friend and lieutenant of Lenin.

Apparently Russian courts are impotent of the government. Russian justice is a travesty on the name. The OGPU, elaborate spy system, holds more effective control over the country than does even the army.

The latest outburst of demagogic fury started when a considerable number of the leading army officers were arrested and suffered death. Officials, who at one time were high in the councils of the government, are

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cole, senior, arrived on Sunday from Victoria to spend the summer with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McIntyre, accompanied by Master Wesley Miller, of Blairmore, left Sunday afternoon for their home in Lacombe, after spending the week end here.

Following is the verdict returned by the jury inquiring into the cause of death of Robert Brown: "We, the undersigned jury, have agreed that Robert Brown, of Bellevue, came to his death at or around 2 p.m. on the 22nd day of June, 1937, in the mine of the West Canadian Collieries at Bellevue, in room 92 on 7 level. Cause of death, according to evidence given was coronary arteries disease, and deceased collapsed and died while following his occupation as a miner. Signed: William Kerr (foreman), Idris Haysom, Elias Fisher, Gordon Youngberg, John Coats, Norman Evans."

The remains of the late Robert Brown were laid to rest on Friday afternoon, following service conducted in the United church by Rev. R. Upton. The choir rendered special music, and Mrs. Upton sang a solo. Following the service in the church, the funeral cortege wended its way to the Hillcrest cemetery, where the last rites of the Masonic order were administered at the graveside. Interment was made in the Masonic plot. Pallbearers were D. Curry, Charles Emerson, D. Hutton, R. C. Costick, George Coupland and F. Padgett. Dearest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Brown and her daughter, Mrs. Frerott (of Blairmore), in their bereavement.

The Bellevue teachers held a very successful picnic at the South Fork on Friday evening last.

With Rev. Upton officiating, the United church manse was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when Sylvia P. Svaboda, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Svaboda, of Frank, became the bride of Albert Edward, youngest son of Mrs. A. Amos. The bride was beautifully dressed in an ankle-length dress of white silk crepe with matching white accessories, and carried a bouquet of spring flowers. She was attended by Miss Julia Patera, of Frank, who also looked lovely in a cream flannel suit with white accessories. The groom was supported by Mr. Joseph Knowles, of Bellevue. Following the ceremony, the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents in Frank, where a buffet supper was served to about fifty friends of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Amos are taking up residence in Bellevue, where a host of friends extend their best wishes.

The Cowley Girls' Club was entertained by the Misses Edith and Sylvia Murphy at their home on Monday afternoon, the 28th, when arrangements were made to give Miss Avis Horning, bride-elect, a shower. Plans were also made to hold a dance in July, the date of which has not yet been definitely decided upon. The club presented Miss Horning with a handsome gift as a token of the esteem in which she was held as a member.

Jim Dwyer, who has been a globe trotter for a good many years, arrived here from old Mexico on Thursday morning of this week to pay a visit to his brother George and family. Mr. Dwyer made the trip by motor car, starting from Mexico Sunday last. He made special mention of travelling for miles and miles through Montana, where the grass stood knee high and waving like a great green carpet, without an animal in sight. This condition, no doubt, has arisen with selling off most of the stock last fall, when feed was hard to get for wintering them over, and with the remaining ones perhaps dying of starvation before grass grew this spring. During the Great War, Mr. Dwyer spent two years in Russia as a tractor expert.

Miss Avis Horning, whose marriage to Mr. Clovis Bouler is announced to take place Saturday, July 3rd, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower, sponsored by the Cowley Girls' Club, on Wednesday night, when the bride-to-be was recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts from a host of friends in the Masonic hall. The early part of the evening was devoted to cards, progressive whist being played, at which prizes were awarded as follows: ladies' first, Mrs. Harold Cleland; consolation Miss Barbara Bondy; gentlemen first, Louis Boulay; consolation, Lawrence Cleland. After an appetizing luncheon was served by the hostesses, a lively dance was enjoyed for a couple of hours to music furnished by Mrs. James Smith, senior, at the piano. Mr. J. R. Wood was master of ceremonies.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE

No one appears to object very strongly on efforts towards collective bargaining on the part of labor organizations, but let farmers unite to protect prices of their commodities and the whole business world jumps on their necks. The secret seems to be that labor organizations have gained sufficient strength to be respected by opposition interests. Farmers have not done so.

AN UNIQUE IDEA

A Communist leader, a member of parliament, a stockbroker, an agriculturist, a minister, an unemployed man, a missionary, a Jewish rabbi, a prisoner on parole, a university professor, and a few others from various walks in life, met recently on an island in Muskoka, Ontario, to live for some days together and to talk informally and intimately in an atmosphere of mutual understanding and goodwill. The group seriously considered from the respective points of view of its members the question: Is their any meaning or purpose to life? They reported a thrilling experience, an adventure in fellowship that left them asking the question: Why cannot we live like this? Why cannot we have a world of understanding and co-operation?

GERMANY IS A BUSY COUNTRY

L. P. Sullivan, past president of the Cranbrook Rotary club, who returned from Europe Saturday morning last, was the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the local club, when he spoke of conditions in Europe, with particular reference to Germany. Business conditions in the German empire, he told the club, were exceedingly bright, with huge development programmes in evidence everywhere. Many new and thoroughly modern buildings were under construction, hundreds of miles of permanent highways were being made and there was a scarcity of manual labor, the country being some 40,000 laborers short. Every available piece of land was being intensively cultivated, rotation of crops being encouraged in every part of the empire.

The speaker said he visited many churches of various denominations and found them all open, people worshipping just as in any other country. The church controversy going on in Germany in no way prevents public worship. That is the only apparent fly in the ointment in the great German empire.—Cranbrook Courier.

PROVINCE LETS CONTRACTS FOR ROAD GRAVELLING

Alberta's highway graving program for this season has been launched, contracts for 170 miles of main roads having been awarded, according to announcement by Hon. W. A. Falloy, Minister of Public Works.

No sooner had the provincial legislature passed the 1937-38 budget than the province embarked upon its graving program. It is expected that this will be extended from time to time.

The program includes considerable graving in the southern part of the province. Between Macleod and Waterton Lakes, a 61-mile stretch will be gravelled, while similar surfacing material will be laid on a 12-mile stretch between Okotoks and High River.

In the north, the program includes a 50-mile stretch of the Peace River highway from Lesser Slave Lake westward.

The program also takes in a 47-mile stretch of the Peace River highway from McLennan to Peace River town.

It is expected that the Dominion Government will consent to sharing in the cost of the work on a 50-50 basis. A list of the projects has been forwarded to Ottawa for approval.

"This is good news. We have been urging the importance for years of all-weather highways and hope that they are merely paving the way for hard surfaced roads," said an official of the Alberta Motor Association.

At the recent conference of the United Church at St. John's, Newfoundland, Rev. L. Reynolds, M.A., of Carbonear, was elected president, and Rev. W. J. Wolfrey, of Grand Bank, secretary. Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, of Toronto, moderator, was present at the conference.

Word comes from Athabasca of the rather serious illness of Mrs. William Conquest, wife of the genial editor of the Athabasca Echo. Some years ago, Mrs. Conquest suffered the amputation of her left arm, but she rallied and overcame this difficulty with great courage. Now, however, she has suffered a second affliction, and it was found necessary to amputate her left leg at the knee. The operation was performed on June 23rd in the Vancouver general hospital.

Mrs. Martha Anne Liewelyn, aged 60, passed away in Coleman hospital of Monday morning. She is survived by her husband, who is also a patient in the hospital, and two sons, Thomas at home, and William, who is employed with McGavin's Bakery in Calgary. Of English parentage, she was born in Kimberley, South Africa, on July 18, 1876. The family came to Coleman in 1924, and had lived in the province for twenty-seven years. The remains were laid to rest on Wednesday forenoon, following service held at afternoon, following service held at St. Alban's church. A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Funeral Home, was in charge of arrangements.

Some particulars regarding the accident in which Wilfred Bartlett, brother of the editor of this paper, met his death, came to hand over the week end. The accident happened a half mile out of Clearville on the No. 3 highway between Windsor and Niagara, but a short distance from Chatham, Ontario. The car driven by Bartlett turned out to pass a car travelling in the same direction and crashed head-on into a car travelling the opposite way. The impact was so great that all four occupants of the two cars had to be rushed to hospital, two with broken legs, one minus an ear and other bodily injuries, while Bartlett was suffering from serious internal injuries from which it was impossible to recover, and he died within twenty-four hours. His brother, Robert, from Detroit, was with him when the end came. The accident happened on Tuesday, and he died on Wednesday. The body was held over till Sunday, pending inquest, and was then forwarded to his home at Petrie, Newfoundland.

Rocky Mountain Holidays

The busiest tourist season in years is in store for the Canadian Rockies. Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise, recently opened for the year, are enjoying mid-season popularity, while increasing numbers of visitors are planning holidays at the beautiful chalet-bungalow camps at Moraine Lake, Lake O'Hara, Lake Wapta, Yoho Valley, and Radium Hot Springs.

Attractions such as golf on the sporty championship course at Banff, riding and hiking over spectacular mountain trails, tennis on splendid courts, boating on glacial lakes, and other sports under ideal conditions make the Canadian Rockies Canada's leading summer playground. Add to this scenery unexcelled in the world, excellent fishing, and endless opportunities for camera hunting of big game and the result is Banff, Lake Louise, or any of half a dozen Canadian Pacific bungalow camps set in valleys or by lakes of outstanding beauty.

Each year in the Rockies several feature events are held in addition to the day-by-day amusements. Among them are the Calgary Stampede, July 5 to 19; Indian Days at Banff, July 23 to 25; outing of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies to Mount Assiniboine, July 30 to August 3; outing of Trail Hikers of Canadian Rockies in Moraine Lake district, August 6 to 9; Banff golf week, August 23 to 28; and Yoho Valley reunion camp of the Alpine Club of Canada from July 17 to 31.

It is to laugh when a ten-cent outfit will boast of being able to compete with The Enterprise in the matter of printing.

At this season of the year resignations from positions suggest calamities. But we are not in a hurry to publish such fatal results as marriages until they actually occur.

In connection with the recent provincial elections in Nova Scotia, it is interesting to note that the returned head of the Liberal government, Premier Angus L. Macdonald, has relatives in Bellevue in the McInnis family.

Canada's first King's printer was John Bushell, of Halifax, who in 1752 published the first newspaper within the present Dominion, beginning on March the 23rd of that year. The proclamation issued by Governor Lawrence, in 1758 for the settlement of French lands was printed by Bushell.

Mrs. Arthur Shearer spent a day or two in Blairmore recently, on her way to Turner Valley to join her husband, who has secured a permanent position as engineer there. She was accompanied down from Kimberley by her son George. While here, she visited her son and daughter, Robert Shearer and Mrs. Gale.

Claiming that Communists are trying to dominate the school board at Canmore, four of the five trustees have resigned. E. O. Duke, M.L.A. for Rocky Mountain; Dr. R. W. Worthington, a member of the board for twenty years; Atilla Caffaro, machinist, and John Riva, junior, mine foreman. Riva and Caffaro are said to have resigned after having been threatened with bodily harm by Communist sympathizers, while Mr. Duke and Dr. Worthington are reported to have resigned in protest.

Premier Aberhart is anxious to "reform" the press. He must think he's a Hitler or a Mussolini. Only in Germany and Italy do the newspapers take dictation from public men. —Chatham Daily News.

Other outfits may boast of printing equipments, but you've got to come to The Enterprise for any job worth while today. Nova Scotia electors have returned a Liberal government. Premier MacDonald won a sweeping victory in his own constituency of Halifax South, while Michael Dwyer, minister of mines, was re-elected in Cape Breton Centre riding. The government has added three more seats to what they held in the last house, and now have thirty.

Mrs. H. S. Dixon and son Bobby, of St. John, New Brunswick, arrived at Macleod last week end on a visit to the former's mother, Mrs. C. D. T. Becher. After a week's visit there, they planned on continuing westward to spend the summer months at Vancouver. Mrs. J. B. Wilson, of Blairmore, is a sister of Mrs. Dixon, and had a visit from her early part of the week on the way west.

Large posters were turned out at The Enterprise job printing department on Tuesday announcing the annual stampede and sports of the Castle River Rodeo Club, to be held this year on their grounds at the South Fork bridge, five miles south of Burmis and about eleven miles west of Pincher, on Wednesday, July 14th. A splendid programme is promised, and particularly the fact that "every item will be run off on schedule." See bills for further particulars.

IT IS A ONE-SIDED DEAL

The notion that the automobile is a luxury and that taxes bearing on the motorists are therefore luxury taxes, should now be rather thoroughly discredited. But since the tax levying authorities will be more or less disposed to let it pass unchallenged, the results of a recent survey of the income of average motorists may be properly called to their attention.

The small income of more than half the motor vehicle owners in the United States is $1,500 or less. In Canada the average is a little higher, perhaps $1,800. The average weekly wage of this group is $35 to $40. In any event the majority of Canada's 1,350,000 motorists are definitely in the low income class.

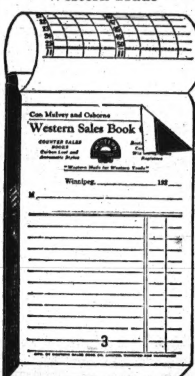

Out of this income they must pay automobile licenses and taxes, including levies on gasoline, a total of about $60 a year on the average. In other words the motorist in the small income group works from 12 to 15 days a year for the automotive tax collector. He works one week to pay taxes on his gasoline and another week for the privilege of buying fuel for his car.

One would assume that as a matter of common fairness a sizeable part of the motorists' money would be earmarked to give them better travel highways or some quid pro quo for what he pays. But the irony of the situation is that only an inconsequential sum is used for this purpose. By far the biggest part is diverted to general revenues. Probably ranking as the most one-sided deal in the annals of government business.

Jeff Clark, of Pincher Creek, driver of a provincial government department of public works trucks, was completely exonerated by a jury inquiry into the death of Harry Van Buren, aged 7, who was killed Saturday afternoon when struck by the truck on the highway west of Lethbridge. While the boy met death as a result of being hit by the truck, the driver was in no way to blame, the jury decided.

The school districts of Bellevue, Blairmore, Frank and Hillcrest will make up the salary necessary to continue with the services of Mr. W. G. Moffatt as music supervisor. On the plea of economy, the Coleman trustees, who had been paying $750 per annum for his share of Mr. Moffatt's salary, notified the Trustees' Association of The Pass towns that they would be unable to continue as a party to the contract.

THE FISHERMAN'S DREAM

Oh, give me a creek that the speckled trout seek, though the way may be tricky and long; where never is heard a discorded word, and no human voice in a song.

The way may be bad, but I'll take it, me lad, though I have to get there on the rim; though the peaky black flies would just eat out my eyes, I'll need all my courage and vim.

I'd be a weakling, indeed, if my ears did not heed the call of the Red Gods in spring; when the wild cherry blooms fill the air with perfume, and the song birds are all on the wing.

Oh, give me a creek that the speckled trout seek, and a fly on the end of my line, where never is heard a discorded word, and humans are all friends of mine.—Trent Courier Advocate.

Interesting Comparisons

Between Speed To-day And That Of 40 Years Ago

The world was moving at a fast pace in 1898. Cy Warman made some interesting comparisons in "The Story of the Railroad," published that year.

The ox teams of Russell, Majors & Co., taking supplies to the army in Utah, less than a century ago, spent 20 to 30 days dragging the wagons from the Missouri river to Fort Kearney, 300 miles.

Mark Twain, travelling by stage-coach at "a fierce and furious gallop," recorded that the 300 miles from St. Joseph to Fort Kearney was made in 66 hours. John Butterfield's first transcontinental stage line, following a long southern route to avoid winter snows, carried mail from St. Louis to San Francisco in 25 days.

Then came the pony express, that one time carried mail from St. Joseph to Sacramento in seven days and 17 hours. The telegraph knocked it out after a few months of heroic service.

Sign followed the railroad, and an early traveller records his amazement that the 300 miles from Omaha to the crossing of the North Platte was made in 15 hours and 40 minutes.

The book of 1898 closes the record by noting that the "fast-travelled 300 miles" could then be made in six hours.

The modern streamliner train schedules Omaha to North Platte in three hours and 55 minutes.

Meanwhile a regular passenger air liner has made a trip from Denver to Chicago in four hours and 16 minutes. Within the memory of our 7,000 surviving civil war veterans, Denver was more remote from Chicago than is Samarkand to-day—Chicago Daily News.

Had Hide On Camel

Britain's wealth is estimated to be £40,000,000,000. The average man's share is represented by the last 10 figures.

Become Star Salesman

Man Who Lost Part Of Brain Made Success Of Business

The case of an unsuccessful Chicago stockbroker who became a millionaire soon after a radical operation on the thinking centres of his brain, in which about three-quarters of his left frontal lobe had been removed, was described before the annual meeting of the American Medical Association by Dr. Ward C. Halstead, Mental University of Chicago neurologist.

Mental tests for two years after the operation, Dr. Halstead reported, showed that the man had greater persistence, greater optimism and self-confidence and a lack of tendency to worry. On the other hand, the neurologist reported, the post-operative tests showed also a deterioration of the intellectual functions, particularly in the faculty of discrimination.

The stockbroker's wife told the physician that the only difference she observed in her husband after his operation was that he did not find fault as much with petty details, stopped worrying about the house and "can't drink as much as he used to without going haywire."

Before the operation, Dr. Halstead reported, the man had been deteriorating rapidly and had fallen in business. After removal of the frontal lobe he seemed to go through a period of insanity from which he recovered sufficiently to be discharged from the hospital.

The next heard from him was that he was managing a gold mine. This venture failed, "through no fault of his," he then "talked himself into a job" as salesman for a line of goods of which he knew nothing.

In his first week, Dr. Halstead reported, his sales amounted to a quarter of a million dollars, the biggest business ever obtained in a week by that particular company. His sales kept mounting until the company had to expand its plant and he was made vice-president.

Independent of the clinical and social recovery, the report said, a "marked residual defect was noted, particularly in the so-called higher processes."

For example, one of the mental tests given by Dr. Halstead consisted in giving the "semi-brained" millionaire the task of crossing out the letter "o" from the pages of a book. The normal, well-brained person, tests have shown, would soon get fatigued and would stop after doing, at most, five pages. The millionaire was still going strong after he had done fifteen pages and continued until the book was taken away from him.

British Settle Problem

Board Of Education Gives Sensible Report On Homework

Few problems have been more debated than that of homework for school children. As a consequence, foolish things have been said on both sides of the subject.

The British, in their characteristic way, have taken hold of the question, made it the subject of a report by the Board of Education—a report made out by teachers and inspectors. The report, which is published, states that there should be no homework for elementary school children under 12, not more than one hour a day for those between 12 and 14, and 1½ hours for those between 14 and 16.

To the extent that it is possible to draw a line anywhere, this seems fairly sensible. It is not necessarily bad, of course, for a boy or girl to study in the home as well as in the classroom; sometimes, indeed, the work done at home may be more valuable.

It largely depends on the total number of hours worked, and also on the age of the child.—Ottawa Journal.

Supply Exceeded Demand

Bride Worried Because Ice Cubes Froze Too Fast

A frantic bride called the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation to complain that her new refrigerator "freezes ice cubes too fast."

Jack Sharkey, sales supervisor, said an electrician rushed to the scene and found ice cubes piled in every available pan, scattered all over the kitchen floor.

"I thought you had to take them out as soon as they froze," the bride told the electrician.

Greatly Surprised

Not so long ago motor cars in some parts of Ireland were few and far between. An old farmer was astonished when he saw one girdling along the road without any visible means of locomotion; but when a motor bike followed it round a bend in the road his eyes fairly bulged.

"Begob!" he remarked to his wife, "who'd a thought of that thing having a thought?"

Paper Changes Hands

Amalgamation Of Daily Newspapers In Quebec City

The announcement, published in the Chronicle-Telegraph, evening daily newspaper, from Hon. Frank Carrel, M.L.C., to "a syndicate of local businessmen" is announced.

The amalgamation, published in the Chronicle-Telegraph, says this paper will hereafter be published with the Quebec News, a daily paper which ceased publication on May 29. The name of the merged papers will be the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, Quebec News and Quebec Gazette, representing amalgamations in the local English newspaper field since the founding of the Gazette in 1764. Hon. Frank Carrel is a veteran Canadian newspaperman and has been an active journalist and publisher for 25 years. He inherited the Quebec Telegraph from his father, James Carrel, its founder. Mr. Carrel was born in Quebec in 1870 and was called to the Quebec legislative council in 1918.

Study Rheumatism

Survey Of Disease Carried Out By Department Of Natural Health

A survey of rheumatic disease in Canada has been carried out by the department of national health working in co-operation with an insurance company. Dr. R. E. Wodehouse, deputy minister, told a meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association. The results of the survey will be published later.

"This survey gives us some definite information on the per cent. of rheumatism by age and sex, the time of rheumatic disease by age and sex and the seasonal variation of the disease by severity," Dr. Wodehouse said.

"We believe the results will materially aid the first Canadian Rheumatic Disease Association and eventually the private practitioner in estimating various kinds of rheumatism."

Making Permanent Records

Toronto Library Plans To Photograph Newspapers For Files

Because newspapers being handled will not last more than 75 years, Toronto Library is planning to have such records photographed so they will last forever. C. R. Sanderson, chief librarian, explained details of the future work he desires to see back files will be able to go to a booth and see the page or edition they desire projected on a screen. Each page of the newspaper will be filmed on 16 mm or 35 mm film and a forty-page paper will be photographed on two feet of film. Three weeks' newspapers will be placed on 100 feet of film. The system would permit many savings, the librarian stated.

The town council of Stornoway, The Hebrides, is mad at the moon. It hasn't shone lately, so the street lighting bill is up 10 per cent.

Explanations And Comments

The Israelites Increase In Numbers. Exodus 1:1-22. The settlement in Egypt brought prosperity for a time. "The calm years glided on and the shepherds in flocks had the happiness of having no annals." All that needed to be recorded was that Joseph and his brethren and all that generation died, and that new generations of the children of Israel "increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them."

"The ethnic name of the descendants of Jacob was Hebrews. The children of Israel, or 'Israelites,' was a religious designation, and it is used here, as the writer is beginning to relate the national history of that people, who were separated from the general mass to be trained up in the knowledge and to the worship of God." (Robert Jamieson).

Why the Children of Israel were Oppressed in Egypt, 1:23-10. "Things came away like tales that are told," exclaims Dickens in "Old Curiosity Shop." The tale of Joseph is ended, the time of royal favor for the Israelites is long past, and Joseph's descendants, "as the sand of the sea in numbers," are oppressed and afflicted. A Pharaoh is now on the throne of Egypt, who although he may have heard about Joseph and his services to Egypt during the years of Joseph's ascendancy, because of those services, He "knew not" Joseph in the essential sense of not acknowledging his authority or influence.

With the new king a new policy was inaugurated. Haman's 10,000, who is believed to have been the new Pharaoh, said to his people, "Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we," and the king, rendering of the Bible reads, "The people of the children of Israel are too many and too mighty for us. Come let us deal shrewdly (shrewdly) with them, lest they multiply, and we shall be made slaves, fearing that if Egypt were attacked by the east, the Israelites, who the eastern foreigners might ally themselves with the invaders and finally 'get them up out of the land'."

The Israelites Oppressed, verses 11-14. Therefore Egyptians set over the children of Israel taskmasters to afflict them with burdens. And the Israelites built for Pharaoh store-cities, Pithom and Raamses. And cruel taskmasters had the opposite effect of that desired—the greater the affliction, the more numerous and mightier became the children of Israel. They cry out to God, and God hears.

Appointed by his brethren, Joseph, the children of Israel, and God took knowledge of them.

Last War Carrier Pigeon

Thrice-Wounded Bird Had Part In Argonne Drive

Mocker, thrice-wounded World War hero who helped smash the Hindenburg line, is dead at the age of 20 years. Last of the World War carrier pigeons, Mocker was stuffed, given a military funeral and sent to Army Signal Corps Headquarters at Washington to join his feathered buddies, Spike and Cher Ami, who died not long ago.

Mocker's last moment came on Sept. 2, 1918, when he carried a message from Beaumont giving American artillery the position of enemy batteries and enabling the doughboys to silence them in 20 minutes.

Carried by airplane, Mocker lost an eye, but was soon back and winging over the front again in the St. Michael and Argonne drives. He was wounded twice more but always managed to get back to his cote behind the American lines.

Prevention Of Silicosis

A Possible Remedy For Costly Industrial Disease

Possible prevention of silicosis, costly industrial disease, was seen in research work done at the Banting Institute and the McIntyre mine at Schumacher, Ont.

A brief statement by the Academy of Medicine of Toronto, prior to a later official publication on the details of the research accomplished, said "it represents the most outstanding contribution in the history of silicosis research."

Doctors at the Banting Institute were reported to have found metallic aluminum particles protected rabbits' lungs from injury from quartz dust inhaled by the animals.

THE CANADIAN ADVENTURE
TRIP OF BOB SIM, AN ONTARIO FARM BOY

No. 4 of a Series of 16 Letters

At least Bob is getting new visions—why? Well, why? Why? Why? He does not travel over more of this beautiful country of ours—East, West and North—than he has in Canada—entirely different methods of life, scenery, foods, to where you are. Distance is the one big obstacle but—"see Canada first" is our suggestion to readers. Well—here's Bob's story.

Baddeck, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. (Special Despatch by Bob Sim).—After going east for two weeks I came to the end of land on the east-most shore of Cape Breton Island. As you look east there is nothing between you and Lisbon or Liverpool—nothing but the ocean. Let me add, a powerful lot of that.

Cape Breton is an island; once a province, separate from Nova Scotia; once a French military base; now an important industrial centre with a large farming and fishing population. I might discourage any young man who thinks of coming here to sell magazines or vacuum cleaners, unless he can speak Gaelic and French as well as English. The Acadian French colony of 17th century, with its civilization and language quite unlike that of Quebec. The Highland Scotch came later, bringing with them a love for rugged places. They have been here for many generations but still speak Gaelic and speak English. Even the local radio stations have Gaelic programs. Perhaps the most interesting thing about it is Day Night on the C.B.C. network, which originates in Cape Breton.

Co-operation of various forces. A friend was trying to find their way on the island. The friend questioned a native Gaelic speaker who was a headway. Then A. B. tried. He got the information; speaking in Gaelic the lady said, referring to the friend: "And did you never learn the Gaelic?"

"I guess not."

"What a way to bring a child up!"

The Co-Operative Wild-Fire. Co-operation of various forces. As you know, has been attempted in all parts of the world. Sometimes it has failed. One of my earliest recollections is of a fire in Saskatchewan, is of wheat fields of Quebec. The Highland Scotch in Ontario in the 1820's. As I promised last week, I will tell you about the co-operative movement in Nova Scotia which have attracted so much attention. Unfortunately, I cannot tell you about the co-operative movement here. For those who are interested, I will mention that two articles will appear in the November issue of Farmer Magazine, on this subject.

"You can't save a man's soul if he has two heads and a tail." This was the sentiment of the University of St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, N.S. P. X. is called the University of St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, N.S. The college authorities saw great suffering about them; in addition they felt that the only way to save the educational institution, serving a privileged class, namely those who could pay for their education, was to become deeply indebted to the local laborer factory. Their boats, fishing boats, were mortgaged at 12% interest. As a result they simply bled for the factory without wages, year in and year out. The fishermen began to study co-operatives, and finally organized a co-operative fishery. In the first year they paid for the plant, and distributed $10,000 to themselves.

But the main object, the vital aspect, is not in adding to one's income. It is the spiritual life that is related to a people who have caught a vision of a new freedom. A freedom primarily intellectual and spiritual, secondarily economic. I have witnessed here in Nova Scotia the beginning of a movement that will sweep Canada as it is sweeping the United States. It is the departure from relief and pauperism, a poison to this generation, to an order of self-help and integrity. The key to the movement is study, organization, and, as one leader has put it, "finding your lobster." It is spreading like wildfire; it is spreading among the people that matter to the common people they are called; the workers, the farmers, fishermen.

Odds And Ends

To-day I leave for the south of Nova Scotia. This part of the trip will include Halifax, the Annapolis Valley, and Acadia. I will take this trip to take me finally to Digby, where I will take the boat across the Bay of Fundy to St. John, New Brunswick.

Northern Nova Scotia is characterized by its suitability for tourist trade. Much of the land is not suitable for industry or agriculture. This is the area of the greatest rural depopulation in Canada; about 60% in 50 years, although my own county of Grey is not far behind with 46% in the same time. Most of the families are dependent on more than one means of livelihood, gazing in at the window. They were watching a dog devouring box after box of chocolates. It was the watchdog.

Very few of us can long bear up under the crushing weight of luxury.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside
By PATRICK SLATER
By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

"You are very backward, Paddy," he told me, "in your book learning. You are too talkative by far, and you are an annoyance to me in the school. I shall set your tasks at home. You'd gain very little at the school, anyway. As well might I try coaxing the stars out of the sky into my hand, Paddy, as try prying sense into those dunder-heads."

The first care of a boy like me, he told me, should be to think and speak his thoughts clearly in the simple words of the English tongue. And to do that, the boy must know what his words mean and be the master of many of them.

"I will have no gabble-guts about Whistling Hill," declared Old Hickory Mick. "Tighten up the belt of your tongue!"

The master put me under a rigid discipline; and had great patience with me because he knew I was trying desperately to please him. Ten new fresh words a day—to taste them by rolling them on my tongue, to pronounce them aright, to know their precise shades of meaning, and to use them freely and naturally in conversation—that was my daily task. The whole matter is clear to me now. The human brain cannot reason without words. A man cannot pasture even on his own thoughts save with the use of words. In a year's time, I could quote almost every statement made by Christ on earth. I was learning English grammar, not by committing stupid rules to memory, but by hearing the teacher correctly spoken. I could, in time, labor through the stilted, crabbed editorials in the semi-weekly Globe newspaper; though I preferred greatly the new story of Donkey & Son, which was printed as a serial when not crowded out by other stupid matters. While I was with Michael Hughes, I was carried on some way also into other things, and for a poor orphan boy, I have never felt that my education was sadly neglected.

"One does not get learning in a school for its own sweet sake," Michael told me one day, after the ward, as we were fishing in the creek for trout.

"All one gets there," he continued, "is merely the tools that enable the brain to work. Now I would have you observe," he told me, after a sharp look at his line, "that fishing for these little trout is a real education for any person, young or old. The fisherman, as you observe, gets a splendid training in patience and perseverance. At the same time, the mind is getting a rest and is recreating itself. (Take hold, you little devil!) And such an education is practical because its rewards become gross and palpable in the trying pan. (Quit wriggling, my little beauty!)"

"It is possible, Paddy," he told me, "for the human brain to be so crowded with facts and the trifling gear of knowledge that no space has been left there for sane thinking to be done. Some very learned men,

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

Paddy, have brains like a jackdaw's nest."

And he may have had the soul of the matter in him.

"What is the use of much of this knowledge, anyway?" he asked me, as he disembowelled a fat, juicy worm.

The end of knowledge is to get understanding; and the end of all such getting is to realize, Paddy, that a poor mortal here below can never really know anything surely.

We live, laid, among shadows, and our lives are compounded of our feelings and our hopes."

He was a quaint and curious character. He was neat and particular about his person; and for long spells, he would be very, steady in his habits. For weeks at a time, the man's soul would romp like a laughing child on sunny hillside; and then suddenly it would betake itself, to lurk for days in gloomy caverns of dripping, chilling darkness. I got to know the signs that such a spell was coming on the man. First thing, he would go off his food. Then he would stride in and out the house and up and down the road as though a devil were at his heels. And the end of such an attack of the nerves was always a drunken spree at the tavern at Mono Mills.

The first of these excursions I saw, I took very much to heart. I met one of the Allen boys driving a bobtailed up to the tolling.

"I see your Old Hickory is off on another tar," he told me.

"Wherever can the good man be?" I asked him.

"Out back over laying down the law at Mr. Murphy's tavern."

"Whatever can have glamourised him?"

"Why Paddy," the young man told me, "he's as drunk as a lord and is holding open house."

So I put on a good fire at Whistling Hill; and trudged over to Mono Mills in the early evening to fetch the poor man home. In the sitting-room of the tavern, I found Michael Hughes and four other men conversing of the affairs of the world and drinking raw whiskey. They had got full enough to feel happy in a noisy way. They were passing through the secondary stage of a drunk in which every one present desires to pay for all the drinks. A fat little Cornish man, with side whiskers, was relaxing into the sentimental or tertiary stage. He had a grand reputation throughout the countryside as a barn farmer, a shingle splitter and a booze artist. A man of such parts usually gives his wife a hard row to hoe, and the feelings of his children were hurt at the Mono school because of the little things they lacked. His small son, Harry, who lived to endow scholarships, proudly told us one day with a tear in his eye: "Ma says I'll get books when the 'ens lay'!"

With great depth of feeling that evening, his father was singing:

There is a tavern in our town,
In our town,
And there my sweetheart sits
him down, sits him down.

Michael Hughes, meanwhile, was delivering a learned discourse to the ceiling beams on the flight of a dung bug. One of the audience was making noise like a cornsnake. They were all at the stage when gentlemen lose track of the passing of time.

I gave Michael a pluck on his coat and asked him to come away home.

"By 'Rish of my coat!" the man exclaimed, "here has come my conscience walking up and down, and to and fro, upon the earth. Get thee behind me, Satan!"

And then, lo and behold, the school teacher drifted into that weepy stage of loving kindness into which drink stews gentlemen at times. They became so soft and tenderhearted that their affections embraced the kind woman who had gone out to their enemies; they think every woman delightfully pretty and they shed tears over the hurt feelings of a little dog. They moan and groan because nobody loves them.

Michael insisted on singing a song:

Whiskey! soul of revelry,
Low the mud you sent me
Possessed with all your devilry,
I challenge foes to beat me.

Behold my coat! 'shreds is done,
My neck cloth down the wind has run—
But I'll forgive the deeds you've done,
If you to-morrow meet me!

What quarrels dire we both have had
This year of sorrow ahh!
But oh, my bounding heart is glad
To see you crown the table.

Dear fondling of the nuptial nest,
My father kind, my mother blest,
My upper coat, my inner vest,
I'll hold you while I'm able!

Mr. Murphy, the tavern keeper, came in and spoke to me.

"Faith happy I'd be, little lad, if you could get Old Hickory out of the place and keep him away from the tavern forever. But I know the man. He'll not budge out the door this night, unless he is thrown out. Run away home! The drink is already starting to gnaw at their innards; and they will soon be rough and quarrelsome."

One of the Irish kings from Ad. jala Township was busy singing Colleen Rose. Michael was insisting that the man shut up.

"Have some of his friends come for him in the morning," Mr. Murphy asked me, as I set off for home. "It's a sick man they'll be finding!"

Mr. Marshall sent the bobtailed over next morning to bring Michael back to Whistling Hill. The ground of him were filling the whole tavern. Hunched down in a chair, the man looked as weak as a wet rag. His face was chalky and dripping with clammy moisture. Mrs. Murphy was coaxing hot green tea into his rebellious stomach.

"Oh! God have mercy! Woman, I am a sick man! Oh, God, I am a sick woman!" he wailed, holding his pain-wracked head, and retching without throwing up the rubbish.

"Yes! cry out, you scoundrel!" she scolded him. "Sure, a bawling calf always finds its mother first! Hear him cry!"

Poor Michael got a swallow of tea down him.

"And you will be up to your tricks again, too, Michael Hughes," she warned him. "But don't be coming back here disgracing a respectable public house!"

We bundled Michael up and drove him home. Mrs. Murphy slipped me a small flask as we were leaving.

"Don't let him smell it or it will sicken the man entirely," said she. "But put a few drops into his tea on the side like, to-day; it will help to numb the gnawing of his innards."

It was a miserable time the man had while his body was purging itself of the poisons; and Michael always came out of a debauch with a humbled heart and a chastened spirit. He consoled himself for a week after by studying the Geography of old Virgilus Maro, and wearied me with the sound of them.

In the course of my duties at Whistling Hill, I got to know a lot about this business of whiskey drinking, and at ordinary times, I was referring to the steady, sedate, daily drinking of hard liquor, which becomes a regular habit with many men, some of whose lives to a great extent are due to their grasping respect and successful members of their communities. A true history of the British Isles would demonstrate that every high office under the crown has been occupied, one time or another, by a gentleman who made a regular practice of consuming over twenty ounces of Scotch whiskey a day—generals in charge of armies in the field, judges of high appellate courts, prime ministers, and it is necessary to name them? My concern was not with a man who took alcohol in such regular dosage that his body tolerated it as a food.

Michael Hughes was not a tippler. He never kept a drop of liquor in the house; and at ordinary times the very smell of it was unpleasant to his nostrils. The condition of his nerves seemed to create at intervals a craving which he fought for days, but which usually overcame him. Like a journeyman barber of to-day, he usually held out till a Friday. And when he drank, he poured hard liquor down the quivery and irritated nerves of a cold and empty stomach. A rebellion promptly broke out. In consequence, Michael Hughes was a drunkard; and in the end, he broke his neck by falling through an open trap-door in a tavern.

He would have come to a sad end at an earlier date had Mrs. Murphy not given me some sound advice.

"Keep him away from here as long as you can," she urged me. "When you see the fit coming on, dose spoonful of brandy into his tea. That will give him a false appetite. Then feed him thick pea soup and put butter into it with a heavy hand; the kind woman advised me."

"A man with a good acumen of oil on his belly lining can drink a whole company under the table."

Which I still think was expert advice. And speaking of destructive and perverse habits and appetites, a

Want International Park

Proposal Is Made In Respect To Part Of B.C. And The Yukon

President Roosevelt was represented as "very receptive" to a plan to make part of British Columbia and the Yukon into an international park and Skagway, Alaska, a free port. Under the project envisioned by Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington and Delegate Anthony Dimond, of Alaska, the section of Canada dipping southwestward toward Skagway, Alaska, from Chilkoot Pass to the Chitana-White River Pass on the eastern border of Alaska would be made into an "international park."

For months the two have been considering the scheme to obtain from Canada sufficient land to provide an "inside route" for United States flyers between Skagway and the main body of Alaska. At present aviators must fly over Canadian soil, which involves international law, or skirt the rugged, glacier-bound coast—a hazardous undertaking in winter.

They explained by making the block of country an international playground for citizens of the United States as well as Canada who have access to it, or could fly over it without customs restrictions.

In exchange for Canada's concession of land, the United States would, under proposal, make Skagway a free port, thus giving Canadians in adjacent Yukon free access to the sea without annoyance of present United States regulations.

Discounts Old Legends

Well-Known Story About Lady Godiva Does Not Escape

Coventry today not only honors its most famous woman, Lady Godiva, but also "Peeping Tom," who was supposed to have been struck blind for peeping on her famous ride through the city's streets.

Lady Godiva herself has the statues in Coventry, one in the Guildhall, the other in the Great Hall. Hundreds of tourists to England visit the two each summer. "Peeping Tom" is also immortalized in Coventry, presumably as a bad example, with several statues. These are each in a different part of the city, but all purport to mark the exact spot where he was struck blind.

Both Lady Godiva and "Peeping Tom" have come in for their share of derision in recent years. It now turns out that the legend of "Peeping Tom" did not appear in the first story of the ride, but was added years later as an afterthought.

As for Lady Godiva, a Benedictine abbey founded by her in 1043 once gave proof of her existence. That, unfortunately, was destroyed by Henry VIII, and while most people still admit that she was a real person, they doubt she ever made the ride. No documentary evidence of it turned up until 150 years after her death and such rides, detractors say, are common in old folk traditions. Lady Godiva, the debunkers say, was attached to such a legend to do honor to her piety and goodness.

Have Not Had Success

Party From Germany Travel Far In Search For Work

Two men and a woman sailed into Capetown, South Africa, in their five-ton yawl, after an adventurous voyage from Germany, their food and water supply about exhausted. They are Frederick Brugstas and his wife, and Heinz Matthes. Originally there were four, but one died of fever off the coast. Their ship, the Stella Maria had travelled 12,000 miles. The party set out with the idea of finding work in foreign countries, but so far have been unsuccessful, although they have been away from their country since August 3, 1935. They stayed at Angola six months hunting big game.

Make Use Of Waste Gas

Can Convert Turner Valley Oil Into Fuel For Automobiles

Application of modern chemical knowledge can convert waste natural gases of Alberta's Turner Valley oil field into fuel for automobiles and other industrial products with consequent increased production value. Dr. A. Cambron, of the national research council, of Ottawa, has been supposed to have been struck blind for peeping on her famous ride through the city's streets.

Dr. Cambron, addressing the Canadian Chemical Association's annual convention at Vancouver, said increasing demand for some of the products which can be derived from natural gas, and improvements in production processes, will "probably make such a development profitable in the near future."

Only location of the field and restricted coal markets has made chemical processing of the gas at Turner Valley unprofitable to date, he said.

Little Helps For This Week

I will arise and go to my Father.

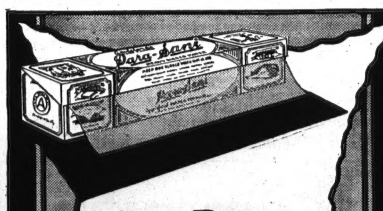

Luke 15:15.
O my God, My Father, hear
And help me to believe;
Weak and weary I draw near,
Thy child O God receive.
I so oft have gone astray,
To the perfect Guide I flee,
Thou wilt turn me not away,
Thy love is pledged to me.

If thou hast fallen, arise and go to thy Father like the prodigal son and humbly say, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and before Thee and am no more worthy to be called Thy son. Make me as one of Thy hired servants." And thy heavenly Father will do what the father in the parable did. He will not change His love for the sake of thy misdoings. It is a small thing for Him to forgive Thee if thou believe in Him, for His hand is not shortened that it cannot make thee fit to be saved.
